

About Kemp Resources

Kemp Resources is dedicated to the belief that the internet is a powerful tool for the small, and that small businesses can enjoy all the same advantages of big business.

That is: You can have a great website without spending lots of money.

Kemp Resources is owned by Michael Kemp, who has been working on software, and websites, with small businesses since 1995.

As a certified project manager \(PMP\), Mike managed more than 100 successful software implementations across the U.S., and managed software development projects with U.S. and offshore teams, including very small websites to web applications costing over a million dollars.

Along the way, he discovered a love of building websites and a love for software that's easy to use and does what it's supposed to do.

Having spent his entire career in small business, Mike understands the pressures, advantages, disadvantages, and extraordinary responsibilities that go with it.
